Cavotec Q2 2025 report: Strong order intake while results impacted by the global economic uncertainty

“Order intake was strong during the quarter, reflecting our solid position in markets driven by the electrification of society. However, the increased global uncertainty has led to greater caution among our customers, which has affected our sales of goods and services with shorter delivery times. This has also impacted the profitability for the quarter. During the quarter, we successfully completed the relocation of our headquarters from Switzerland to Sweden, which, among other things, brings us closer to our investor base.”
David Pagels, CEO.
